

CorRoles & Assignments

Here's a list of potential roles and assignments for your group. Not everyone needs a role so consider this to be a highly supplemental and optional resource.

Assignments:

Assignments are one time roles that help your people plan on contributing something to the group the following week. These can even be rotated from group member to group member.

- Prayer Focus

Invite a member of your group to prayerfully consider a prayer focus that will guide the "Love God" movement of your small group meeting. Will you be praying for: The persecuted church? Marriages? City and government officials? For those that don't know Jesus. Ask them to come to group with a prayer focus in mind.

- Psalm Reading

Invite a member of your group to prayerfully consider a psalm to read during your "Love God" movement. A simply scripture reading of a psalm can be a great "Love God" movement.

- Snack

Ask someone to bring a bag of chips or some sort of lite refreshment for your group to enjoy.

Roles:

Roles can be official positions given to group members so they know how they contribute every week. These are oftentimes typically things that a small group leader would take on by themselves.

- Prayer Director

The prayer director records prayer requests during the meeting, sends them out to group members during the week and also helps to collect and distribute prayer requests during the week.

- Meeting Note Taker

The Note Taker records a summary of the highlights and notes from the meeting to email to the group for review and reminder in the following days.

- Meeting Host

Many Groups choose to a host to be someone other than the discussion facilitator. You can also consider rotating homes that you're meeting in.

- “Be The Church” Coordinator

Each week you’ll talk about who needs help, who you know that needs help, and who can help. Why not have someone who can record the needs and help coordinate them after the group is over? This person could also help during the week – if someone needs to borrow a drill or someone needs a ride, this is the person to contact.

- “Be The Church” Coordinator

Each week you’ll talk about who needs help, who you know that needs help, and who can help. Why not have someone who can record the needs and help coordinate them after the group is over? This person could also help during the week – if someone needs to borrow a drill or someone needs a ride, this is the person to contact.

- Group Admin

This person keeps track of the contact information and attendance. They help new people get plugged in and stay plugged in and make sure everyone stays connected. Take it to the next level and help remind the group to celebrate birthdays and special events.

- Check-In

Sometimes when a group is larger, it can be a lot for the small group leader to “check-in” with everyone who missed during a given week. Yet, it’s nice when someone reaches out to say: “We missed you, y’all okay?” This is an important role.

- Weekly Reminder

Honestly, the week gets busy, packed, and filled with distractions. Sometimes we need someone to reach out and say: “Don’t forget... we’ve got small group tonight. Can’t wait to see you there! We’re studying Acts 2.”

- Worship Leader

If you’re fortunate enough to have someone who clean play and sing a worship song, small group worship times can be incredibly meaningful and impactful.

- Childcare Coordinator

Some groups choose to provide childcare for their CorGroup. If you’ve got lots of families you might choose the same. Consider giving someone the role of coordinating it and managing it when the childcare worker needs a substitute.